They bring meetings into institutions where people in detoxes and jails cannot get to. There is bridging the gap. It is a way to get someone to their first meeting that is leaving an institution and then hopefully bring them home. If you want to take a commitment you have to go to the meeting. If you are taking a commitment for your group, only you as IGR will need to stand and be voted in but if you are taking a personal commitment there must be two people. You must have an alternate with you to stand and be voted in
